Survey of Tunisian Public Opinion
December 24, 2011-January 6, 2012
Survey Specifications

• The International Republican Institute (IRI) conducted a national survey of adult Tunisians (18+ years) from December 24, 2011–January 6, 2012.

• Data was collected in the field by a Tunisian-owned and operated marketing research firm, Elka Consulting, under the supervision of David Williams from Williams and Associates of Salem, Massachusetts.

• Interviewing was collected using the in-person, face-to-face methodology by trained professional interviewers using a multistage stratification proportionate to population sample distribution.

• The Kish method was used to select respondents 18 years and older within the randomly selected household. The left hand method was used to select every third household in localities selected through an area probability sample.

• Stratification was based on three stages: a proportional division among Tunisia’s 24 governorates, proportional division of urban and rural categories, and proportional division by gender and age group according to the most up-to-date data from Tunisia’s National Statistics Institute collected in July 2009. The sample was then post-weighted to make it proportionate to national representation by province.

• Each of Tunisia’s 24 governorates was divided into territorial sections or districts. In every territorial section at least one point of survey was selected with the overall number of points determined by population density. In every point of survey, interviewers were called to do no more than 10 interviews. Points of survey were distributed proportionally between rural and urban areas in every governorate and in every geographical section of the governorate. Points of survey in a territorial section within a governorate were selected randomly.

• A total of 1,308 interviews were completed yielding an overall margin of error of ± 2.76 percent at the midrange of the 95 percent confidence level.

• The male-to-female ratio of respondents was 50 percent male to 50 percent female.

• The urban-to-rural ratio of respondents was 64 percent urban to 36 percent rural.

• The geographic and demographic distributions conform to the most recent generally accepted official statistics available.

• The information in this report has been compiled in accordance with international standards for market and social research methodologies.

• Figures in charts and tables may not sum to 100 percent due to rounding.

• This poll was conducted with support from the Middle East Partnership Initiative.
How would you say that things are going in Tunisia these days, are things going in the right direction or the wrong direction?

As you may already know, in a secular government, the government’s decisions on public policy and laws are made without any consideration to religion. Some people refer to this as the separation of religion and state, it does not mean that the government is atheist just that no specific religious idea is promoted when making laws. Considering this definition of secularism, in general would you approve or disapprove of the government of Tunisia being secular?
