Detailed Methodology

• The survey was conducted by Dr. Rasa Alisauskiene of the public and market research company Baltic Surveys/The Gallup Organization on behalf of the International Republican Institute. The fieldwork was carried out by the Institute of Polling & Marketing.

• Data was collected throughout Georgia (excluding the occupied territories of Abkhazia and South Ossetia) between February 22 and March 8, 2017 through face-to-face interviews at respondents’ homes.

• The sample consisted of 1,501 permanent residents of Georgia 18 years and older and eligible to vote. It is representative of the general population by age, gender, education, region and size/type of the settlement.

• A multistage probability sampling method was used, employing the “random route” and “next birthday” respondent selection procedures.

  • Stage one: All districts of Georgia were grouped into 10 regions. The survey was conducted throughout all regions of Georgia, except for the occupied territories of Abkhazia and South Ossetia.
  • Stage two: the territory of each region were split into settlements, and grouped according to subtype (i.e. cities, towns and villages).
    ○ Settlements were selected at random.
    ○ The number of selected settlements in each region is proportional to the share of population living in a particular type of the settlement in each region.
  • Stage three: primary sampling units were described.

• The margin of error does not exceed plus or minus 2.5 percent.

• The response rate was 69 percent.

• Charts and graphs may not add up to 100 percent due to rounding.

• The survey was funded by the U.S. Agency for International Development.
