Background

The International Republican Institute (IRI) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, organization dedicated to advancing freedom and democracy worldwide. Since 1983, IRI has worked to develop democratic institutions and ideals, carrying out a variety of international programs to promote freedom, self-government and the rule of law worldwide. IRI provides technical assistance in the areas of political party strengthening, developing civic institutions and open elections, promoting democratic governance and advancing the rule of law.

A recurring theme across IRI's elections and political party focused programming in Sri Lanka, has focused on the barriers to women's political participation. In addition to ideological and societal barriers to women's political participation, including patriarchal political structures that restrict avenues of participation for women, or prevent women from assuming leadership roles in parties or other government institutions, concerns about violence against women candidates and voters persist. Furthermore, while physical acts of violence continue to be prevalent, violence against women during electoral cycles can also manifest itself in the form of harassment or character assassination of women candidates via social media and internet platforms. Numerous mapping exercises and stakeholder meetings have indicated that political actors, including parties, civil society organizations, and government institutions, lack the capacity and awareness to effectively respond to these threats. To address this, IRI will implement a series of two-day workshops and panel discussions for women candidates, as well as other key political actors in all 09 provinces. IRI needs an organization/trainer to organize one training each in five provinces. These include the North Central, North Western, Uva, Sabaragamuwa and Southern Provinces.

1. IRI may contact any Bidder for clarification or additional information, but Bidders are advised that IRI intends to evaluate the offers based on the written proposals, without discussions, and reserves the right to make decisions based solely on the information provided with the initial proposals. IRI may but is not obligated to conduct additional negotiations with the most highly rated Bidders prior to award of a contract, and may at its sole discretion elect to issue contracts to one or more Bidders.
2. Mathematical errors will be corrected in the following manner: If a discrepancy exists between the total price proposed and the total price resulting from multiplying the unit price by the corresponding amounts, then the unit price will prevail and the total price will be corrected. If there is a discrepancy between the numbers written out in words and the amounts in numbers, then the amount expressed in words will prevail. If the Bidder does not accept the correction, the offer will be rejected.
3. IRI may determine that a proposal is unacceptable if the prices proposed are materially unbalanced between line items or sub-line items. Unbalanced pricing exists when, despite an acceptable total evaluated price, the price of one or more contract line items is significantly overstated or understated as indicated by the application of cost or price analysis techniques. A proposal may be rejected if IRI determines that the lack of balance poses an unacceptable risk.
4. IRI will conduct a source selection based as follows:

IRI intends to make an award to the responsible Bidder based on the following evaluation factors:
