Background:

The International Republican Institute (IRI) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, organization dedicated to advancing freedom and democracy worldwide. Since 1983, IRI has worked to develop democratic institutions and ideals, carrying out a variety of international programs to promote freedom, self-government and the rule of law worldwide. IRI provides technical assistance in the areas of political party strengthening, developing civic institutions and open elections, promoting democratic governance and advancing the rule of law.

IRI Belarus's work is geared toward developing the capacity of the democratic political opposition—with specific focus on internal organization development, campaign capacities and grassroots political activism. To achieve this, IRI will provide trainings on a range of subjects.

Women's participation and access to formal political power structures has been limited in Belarus, including within pro-democracy political parties. To encourage engagement and participation of females, IRI brings together young female activists from CSOs and political parties and aims to focus their joint efforts on challenging gender roles and promoting women's empowerment. RI Belarus is seeking to contract with local, regional and international experts to serve as trainers and for our gender-focused programming activities and events.

Period of Performance:

Statement of Work:

IRI Lithuania is seeking bids from professional trainers and facilitators to conduct a series small- and large-group trainings on political participation and understanding political processes, encouraging joint efforts between political and civil society activists to address gender issues, and empowering women to take more active roles in their communities. Trainings shall also address economic-focused issues that affect Belarusian women, including a pronounced wage gap between men and women, as well as discriminatory practices of hiring and promotions within the labor market.

To be considered as having relevant experience, bidders shall demonstrate on their resume their proficiency in the subject matter and/or experience as a former or current practitioner of the subject matter.

As a result of a contract, the winning bidder will:

- In consultation with IRI design the training agenda and curriculum in English;
- Provide a post-event evaluation and debrief on performance of participants and the overall success of the training.
- Revise and adjust training agenda and other materials based on the results of the feedback from IRI and participants.

Trainings will take place over the course of several days. Most of the trainings will be scheduled on weekends.

If the Bidder does not accept the correction, the offer will be rejected.

Unbalanced pricing exists when, despite an acceptable total evaluated price, the price of one or more contract line items is significantly overstated or understated as indicated by the application of cost or price analysis techniques. A bid may be rejected if IRI determines that the lack of balance poses an unacceptable risk.
