Public Opinion Survey: Myanmar

June - July 2019

Detailed Methodology

- Data was collected between June 19 and July 14, 2019 by Myanmar Survey Research (MSR) under the supervision of the International Republican Institute.
- A multi-stage sampling approach was designed to yield a nationally representative sample of the population aged 18 and older, with the following stages of sampling:
 - Stratification of 18+ population into states and regions according to PPS (probability proportionate to size) design;
 - Stratification of urban and rural in each state and region according to PPS design;
 - PPS selections of townships and random selection of wards and villages within each stratum to constitute sampling points;
 - Random selection of households within each selected sampling point via random walk;
 - Random selection of respondents within each selected household via KISH grid.
- In addition to the above described PPS sample, less populous states were allocated booster samples to allow for analysis by state level. Each state had a minimum of n=200 interviews. Any oversamples were weighted back down to their national proportion for national level analysis. The total sample size was n=4,030.
- Multiple townships in Rakhine, Shan and Kachin states were excluded from the sample due to ongoing conflict. The excluded population totals 1.04 million.
- The margin of error is plus or minus 1.5 percentage points for national level analysis.
- The overall response rate for this study is 63%.
- Charts and tables may not add up to 100 percent due to rounding.
- Data and bases cited in this presentation are weighted for State/Region, Urban/Rural, Gender, Age and Education.
