Background
The International Republican Institute (IRI) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, organization dedicated to advancing freedom and democracy worldwide. Since 1983, IRI has worked to develop democratic institutions and ideals, carrying out a variety of international programs to promote freedom, self-government and the rule of law worldwide. IRI provides technical assistance in the areas of political party strengthening, developing civic institutions and open elections, promoting democratic governance and advancing the rule of law.

Trainings and Exchanges for the New Generation of Rights Defenders (TENGRI) is a pilot program in Kazakhstan is operationalized remotely from Kyrgyzstan. As rights and opposition continue to be limited, this program aims at bringing both civil society organizations and individual activists together to help them formulate advocacy campaigns and better target their efforts. This research activity – conducting 18 focus group discussions – will help identify issue areas that resonate with Kazakh civil society most.

Period of Performance
Date of contract signature until September 30, 2022

Statement of Work

Qualitative Research In Kazakhstan

Focus Groups on National Identity and Internet Usage

Objectives Of The Research

IRI needs to gain an in-depth understanding of:

1. National identity: How do different generations perceive national identity (“What does mean to you be Kazakh?”)? What role their usage of different media platforms (esp. the use of social media among the youth) play in their understanding of national identity? What role does the memory of the USSR times play (“What does USSR mean to you your family/friends”)?

2. Internet Usage and Censorship circumvention.

What role does the internet play for citizens, and what do they use the internet for (information versus communication etc.)? Among their total media diet, what role does the internet play versus traditional media? In what languages do participants use the internet, and is this different from the languages for use traditional media in? Do participants notice different information on the internet depending on who is behind the content (e.g. local, versus Western, versus Russian sources)? How are citizens impacted by the internet shutdown? How was this impact on civil society? What sources of information did participants consult during the shutdown? Do participants know how to use VPNs, and if yes, did they during the internet shutdown, and what was their experience? What steps do “advanced users” take to access information?

Methodology

The questions above are best addressed by a focus group study, with 9 groups discussion on the first topic, and another 9 discussing the second topic. Each group should last approximately 90-120 minutes.

Topic 1 will be discussed by:

IRI will accept participant recruitment by phone/online, and online FGDs, as long as the bidder is able to demonstrate that online fieldwork has been carefully planned for success. IRI is particularly concerned that potential participant who may meet all recruitment criteria but lack a reliable high-speed data connection (or lack a device or lack skills to access a video conference platform) might be excluded from this study. If you propose online fieldwork, please explain how you intend to mitigate this.

Offeror will be responsible for managing all logistical aspects of the project above and should engage local support staff as necessary to complete the following:

- Screener. IRI will provide a draft screening questionnaire for each set of groups based on the specifications above. The Offeror will review offer edits within three working days of receipt. Following IRI approval, the Offeror will translate the screener into Russian or Kazakh, depending on the FGD. IRI reserves the right to review the translation prior to recruitment launch.

At least one week prior to the start of the first focus group session, the Offeror will provide a brief description of the composition of the groups in terms of age, gender, occupation, etc. Offeror should recruit 8-10 participants for each in person group as well as 2-3 alternates in case any of the original participants are unable to participate. If online groups are proposed, there will be 5-7 participants for each group. All participants will be required to give written informed consent to participate in this study. IRI will provide draft informed consent language which may be adjusted by the bidder in order to conform to any specific legal requirements in the research country.

- Discussion guide. IRI will provide the draft discussion guides (one for each set of groups). Offeror will be welcome to offer suggestions for improvement and is expected to format and translate the discussion guide into Russian or Kazakh, depending on the FGD. IRI reserves the right to review the translation(s.) Once IRI has reviewed the template, some modification of the discussion guide may be required.

- Observation. The Offeror will provide an opportunity for IRI staff to observe the focus group discussions remotely.

- Recording of focus group discussions. Audio and/or video record all aspects of research necessary for full and accurate data collection, transcript generation and inclusion of illustrative samples in the final analytical report. Offeror will film focus groups and film

- Written analytical report. Offeror will analyze all discussions and write and edit two final analytic reports (one for each topic) for review, editing and acceptance by IRI. IRI will provide a report template. The report is expected to synthesize findings across all participants and all discussion sessions, while noting any major differences of opinions between participants and sessions. The report must present actual analysis (i.e., not mere description) and illustrative quotes from participants. Evaluation and Award Process

1. IRI may contact any Bidder for clarification or additional information, but Bidders are advised that IRI intends to evaluate the offers based on the written proposals, without discussions, and reserves the right to make decisions based solely on the information provided with the initial proposals. IRI may but is not obligated to conduct additional negotiations with the most highly rated Bidders prior to award of a contract, and may at its sole discretion elect to issue contracts to one or more Bidders.

2. Mathematical errors will be corrected in the following manner: If a discrepancy exists between the total price proposed and the total price resulting from multiplying the unit price by the corresponding amounts, then the unit price will prevail and the total price will be corrected. If there is a discrepancy between the numbers written out in words and the amounts in numbers, then the amount expressed in words will prevail. If the Bidder does not accept the correction, the offer will be rejected.

3. IRI may determine that a proposal is unacceptable if the prices proposed are materially unbalanced between line items or sub-line items. Unbalanced pricing exists when, despite an acceptable total evaluated price, the price of one or more contract line items is significantly overstated or understated as indicated by the application of cost or price analysis techniques. A proposal may be rejected if IRI determines that the lack of balance poses an unacceptable risk.

4. IRI will conduct a source selection based as follows:
   IRI intends to make an award to the responsible Bidder based on the following evaluation factors:

   a) Technical evaluation, (including technical capabilities, proposed technical approach, and personnel qualifications) – 40 percent

   Recruitment plan-10 Percent

   Capacity to perform scope of work-20 Percent

   Analysis plan-10 Percent
b) Experience in performing similar projects –30 percent

Experience conducting face to face and remote FGDs in Kazakhstan-30 Percent

e) Price – 30 percent

IRI intends to evaluate Bidders’ proposals in accordance with these factors and make an award to the responsible Bidder whose proposal is most advantageous to the program.

5. If a cost realism analysis is performed, cost realism may be considered in evaluating performance or price.
