Background:

The International Republican Institute (IRI) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, organization dedicated to advancing freedom and democracy worldwide. Since 1983, IRI has worked to develop democratic institutions and ideals, carrying out a variety of international programs to promote freedom, self-government and the rule of law worldwide. IRI provides technical assistance in the areas of political party strengthening, developing civic institutions and open elections, promoting democratic governance and advancing the rule of law.

IRI will deploy an international election observation mission to Nigeria for the 2023 general elections in partnership with the National Democratic Institute (NDI). As part of the observation mission, IRI is seeking a long-term analyst to track electoral disputes, the structure and practices of the judiciary, and the implementation and understanding of legal practices during the 2023 presidential and National Assembly elections.

Period of Performance: January 22 to March 19, 2023.

Statement of Work:

IRI is seeking an individual with a background in Nigeria or the region and expertise in assessing the legal environment to serve as a Long-Term Analyst (LTA). To enhance the joint mission's assessment of the 2023 elections, IRI will deploy a thematic expert to analyze judicial processes related to the elections. The thematic expert would deploy prior to the IRI/NDI delegation of short-term observers to meet with various stakeholders, including political parties, the Independent National Electoral Commission (INEC), judicial actors, civil society organizations, domestic election observers and other representatives of the international community.

The consultant will be based in Abuja but may conduct sub-national travel if conditions warrant and budgets permit. The consultant will produce regular weekly analysis to inform mission efforts. In the analysis of the 2023 general elections, the consultant will also draw upon the IRI/NDI's pre-election assessment statements as well as existing analyses of judicial processes. The LTA will brief members of the IRI/NDI delegation of findings prior to delegates deploying to observe the February 25 elections. The LTA will also deploy as a short-term election observer on election day.

In the period between the national and state-level elections, the LTA would continue to meet with electoral stakeholders and monitor reports or statements produced by the aforementioned actors to continue assessing the judicial process related to the elections and application of the law during and after the announcement of results. The LTA will produce a short report that will contribute to IRI/NDI's final election observation report. Some questions to guide the work of the legal LTA include:

1. To what extent is INEC and other electoral actors adhering to the newly established legal timelines?
2. What measures must INEC and other electoral actors take to instill confidence that the new electoral law will be fully implemented?
3. What actions are other stakeholders, such as civil society and the National Assembly, undertaking to hold INEC accountable for fully implementing the Act?
4. What additional electoral reforms are required to enhance the electoral process following the 2023 polls?
5. What measures are being taken to ensure election tribunal judges are properly resourced, impartial, and able to handle the anticipated caseload?
6. How many petitions emerge out of the candidate primary process and how efficiently are they addressed by the judiciary?
7. How many petitions emerge out of the presidential and National Assembly elections and are they effectively and impartially addressed by the judiciary?
8. What reforms are necessary to enhance the electoral dispute resolution process in Nigeria?
9. Are the existing penalties for electoral offenses adequate? Are they enforced?
10. What are ways to increase Nigerians' awareness of new penalties for electoral offenses in the 2022 Electoral Act?
11. How can INEC and security forces establish a clearer understanding, and a more consistent approach, to dealing with electoral offenses at polling units?

Between July and December 2022, IRI/NDI deployed two pre-election assessment missions to examine election preparations and the political environment. At the conclusion of each mission, the joint delegations issued public statements that included recommendations to Nigerian and international stakeholders to enhance the credibility of the election process and prevent violence.

The selected LTA will track the implementation (or lack thereof) of the recommendations included in the statements.
