Background

The International Republican Institute (IRI) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, organization dedicated to advancing freedom and democracy worldwide. Since 1983, IRI has worked to develop democratic institutions and ideals, carrying out a variety of international programs to promote freedom, self-government and the rule of law worldwide. IRI provides technical assistance in the areas of political party strengthening, developing civic institutions and open elections, promoting democratic governance and advancing the rule of law.

To promote civil society, women, youth, and persons with disabilities’ (PWDs) ability to identify and respond to disinformation and develop more comprehensive responses to information disorders in Zimbabwe, the International Republican Institute (IRI) will work with local civil society organizations (CSOs), and media partners to increase awareness around false and inaccurate information being disseminated by media. The Institute will also foster increased coordination between grassroots organizations, CSOs, and media to facilitate opportunities for them to engage with various stakeholders to promote access to alternative, real time, independent, and verified sources of information for improved decision making in rural and urban communities.

IRI intends to conduct an Organizational Capacity Assessments for selected community-based organizations (CBOs) operating in rural Tsholotsho (Matabeleland North) and Checheche (Manicaland) and urban communities (Bulawayo and Harare). The assessment report will be used to strengthen the capacity of selected organizations. The undertaking seeks to establish institutional capacity gaps, strengths, weaknesses and devise action plans to mitigate identified areas of improvement. Considering this, the Institute requires the services of a firm or individual consultant to develop and implement a participatory self-assessment approach to measure the capacity of selected CBOs and devise plans and strategies to mitigate capacity gaps. The process and methodology must ensure capacity is measured using capacity areas, but not restricted to, such as financial management, program management, organizational policy and procedures, corporate governance and advocacy. The individual or firm should be experienced in conducting organizational capacity assessments using interactive self-assessment techniques. In addition, the individual/firm should have a proven track record of having conducted similar processes in the target districts using languages such as Ndebele, Shona, and English. It is envisioned that the undertaking will feed into (a) design and implementation of civic awareness activities, (ii) improve business development, and (iii) assist selected organization to communicate effectively with external audiences.

Evaluation and Award Process
1. IRI may contact any Bidder for clarification or additional information, but Bidders are advised that IRI intends to evaluate the offers based on the written proposals, without discussions, and reserves the right to make decisions based solely on the information provided with the initial proposals. IRI may but is not obligated to conduct additional negotiations with the most highly rated Bidders prior to award of a contract, and may at its sole discretion elect to issue contracts to one or more Bidders.
2. Mathematical errors will be corrected in the following manner: If a discrepancy exists between the total price proposed and the total price resulting from multiplying the unit price by the corresponding amounts, then the unit price will prevail and the total price will be corrected. If there is a discrepancy between the numbers written out in words and the amounts in numbers, then the amount expressed in words will prevail. If the Bidder does not accept the correction, the offer will be rejected.
3. IRI may determine that a proposal is unacceptable if the prices proposed are materially unbalanced between line items or sub-line items. Unbalanced pricing exists when, despite an acceptable total evaluated price, the price of one or more contract line items is significantly overstated or understated as indicated by the application of cost or price analysis techniques. A proposal may be rejected if IRI determines that the lack of balance poses an unacceptable risk.
4. IRI will conduct a source selection based as follows:

IRI intends to make an award to the responsible Bidder based on the following evaluation factors:
   a) Technical evaluation, (including technical capabilities, proposed technical approach, and personnel qualifications) – 40 percent
   b) Past performance and experience in performing similar projects – 30 percent
   c) Price – 30 percent

IRI intends to evaluate Bidders’ proposals in accordance with these factors and make an award to the responsible Bidder whose proposal is most advantageous to the program.
5. If a cost realism analysis is performed, cost realism may be considered in evaluating performance or price.
