Background:
The International Republican Institute (IRI) is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, organization dedicated to advancing freedom and democracy worldwide. Since 1983, IRI has worked to develop democratic institutions and ideals, carrying out a variety of international programs to promote freedom, self-government and the rule of law worldwide. IRI provides technical assistance in the areas of political party strengthening, developing civic institutions and open elections, promoting democratic governance and advancing the rule of law.

The International Republican Institute (IRI) works to inform the development of responsive and inclusive policies and strategies in South Asia. One method used to achieve this objective is through survey research that gauges public opinion on perceptions of democracy and public policy priorities to better understand citizen perceptions of government, concerns, and priorities such as economic development. Results and analysis from a national survey will enrich public dialogue and inform political party platforms.

Period of Performance:
Date of signature – June 30, 2024

Eligibility:
- English language skills
- Bidder complies with any laws governing human subjects research that apply to face-to-face polling in Sri Lanka, including data privacy laws

Statement of Work:
During the period of performance, IRI plans to conduct one national survey in Sri Lanka. In consultation with IRI, the bidder should perform the following:
- Review survey questionnaire to ensure it meets international best practices for survey research.
- Provide oversight and consultations to IRI’s survey research partner on data analysis, sampling, and survey research methodologies.
- Analyze SPSS file for a national public opinion poll, using data submitted by IRI’s in-country polling partner.
• Develop and apply predictive data science models to questions on party preference and other selected questions in consultation with IRI. With the predictive data modeling, identify the key demographics, issues and beliefs of those who hold specific political beliefs.

• The contractor will provide an analytical report of 3-5 pages highlighting key findings from the data and placing these findings within the local context. Mere description of data is not sufficient; the report must contain analysis. Written analysis will focus on information that is politically applicable and actionable to IRI’s program and must draw out recommended actions for relevant stakeholders. The analysis will include the modeling results for selected questions. The written analysis will follow a predetermined format and style guide, provided by IRI.

• The contractor will provide a PowerPoint presentation with a chart for every survey question (at least 50 slides) and will include modeling results for selected questions. A template (already completed with historic data for trend charts if applicable) will be provided by IRI.

• As appropriate, conduct in-person and/or telephone briefings on survey findings with relevant stakeholders.

Deliverables include the following:

1. Finalized SPSS file with all data review checks completed
2. PowerPoint presentation with analysis from SPSS file that follows formatting standards set by IRI.
3. Written analysis of national poll findings that identifies three or more primary takeaways from the survey.
4. Conduct up to 7 briefings for stakeholders on primary takeaways of the survey. The briefings will be given in English, mainly in-person in Sri Lanka. Some of them may be online.

From start to finish, the bidder must comply with any laws governing human subjects research that apply in Sri Lanka, including data privacy laws.
